DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rosenqvist.

The patent by Rosenqvist (2,016,179) shows a cooling circuit of the engine. A tank body (14) forms a heat storage tank that is mounted in a vehicle and stores a cooling liquid let out from the engine via the cooling circuit and substantially maintains a temperature of the cooling liquid.

A housing (21), which has an inlet passage (15) that lets the cooling liquid flow into the tank body, and an outlet passage (17) that lets the cooling liquid flow out from the tank body, and which is positioned at a lowermost end portion of the cooling circuit in a vertical direction. A drain port (16) is provided on the inlet passage for letting the cooling liquid out.

The drain port is connected to a lower end of the inlet passage in the vertical direction.

A drain plug is connected to the inlet passage for adjusting opening and closing of the drain port.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 3747

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rosenqvist.

The patent by Rosenqvist does not show piping at the end of the drain plug. It is the view of the examiner that it would be an obvious choice of design to put a hose to direct the draining coolant from the drain plug.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rosenqvist.

The patent by Rosenqvist does not specify the location of the pump. It is the view of the examiner that the invention of Rosenqvist inherently has a coolant pump in the cooling circuit, the location of which is a choice of design. Being that the engine is higher than the heat storage tank, it is inherent that the channel between the pump and the engine would be slanted such that the channel becomes lower in the vertical direction with approach to the pump.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 7-15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
